My Favourite Brushes

Detail Brushes

Synthetic Angled and Curved brushes with a sharp edge and a fine liner brush.

- Art Brushes work well for all – I got mine in The Range and Art and Hobby.
- I also use the R9170 Size 10 from Royal and Langnickle - www.royalbrushstore.com
- My favourite angled brush from a makeup brand is the No 11 Angled Brush from the Makeup Pro Store - www.makeupprostore.co.uk (use code JEANETTE10)
- I also love the detailed brush set from Plouise from the MMMitchel Acid Reign Collection - www.distinctbrands.eu (affiliate link - use code JEANETTECRONIN for 15% off)

Fluffy Brushes

For eye brushes I tend to have a small, medium and large fluffy brush to hand when doing a look as I like to have a brush for each colour. I tend to go for a conical shape, but I also like to have a flat brush with a fluffy edge too.

Synthetic Face Brushes (used for cream products):

Real Techniques and Zoeva have a great selection of face brushes that are similar to the one I showed in the video that are discontinued.

I haven't used any these myself, so I can't 100% say what they are like, but I wanted to give you some options that were like the ones I showed you.

- Real Techniques Light Layer Powder or Blusher Brush - look similar to my Topshop Brush, good for foundation.
- Real Techniques Light Layer Complexion or Custom Complexion Brush - look similar to my original contour brush by Real Techniques, good for cream bronzer/contour (I saw the best selection of Real Techniques on www.littlewoodsireland.ie)

All of the brush brands that I've mentioned above offer brush sets so if you have a look at what you have and what you think you may need, I recommend having a look at what deals are on in brush sets as you might get better value than buying brushes individually.

As I said already these are the styles of brushes I use, what brand you go for is completely up to you.
