

Jeanette Cronin

Makeup Artst • Educator • Motivator

Skincare

Looking after you skin is so important to help your makeup sit well and last on your skin.

Before applying any makeup make sure to have your skin fully clean and moisturized. If you can use an eye cream this can make sure a difference to how concealer sits on the eye.

I recommend visiting your local skin specialist to get proper advice on how to look after your skin and what products to use to suit you.

Primers

Primer is so important. If you prime your skin correctly then you can get away with using so many foundations.

Think about what your skin needs first and correct what needs to be corrected. Then you must consider what type of foundation you'll be using on top of that and what kind of finish do you want? Would you like a matte or dewy finish?

Dry skin normally needs moisture, dry and dull might need an illuminating primer to bring back that glow.

Enlarged pores or texture in general will need a smoothing primer. If you have a lot of oil then you can use a mattifying primer.